Foxton Locks

Foxton Locks is home to two amazing feats of engineering in the heart of the Leicestershire countryside.

The Grade II listed locks on the Leicester Line of the Grand Union Canal are over 200 years old. They demonstrate how 19th century engineers solved with problem of getting boats up and down a steep hill.

This impressive flight of ten locks is the longest set of staircase locks in Britain. It takes an average of 45 minutes for boats to travel the entire flight and on busy days as many as 40 boats can make the trip.

Alongside the locks you can see the side ponds which provide reserves of water for the locks and prevent wastage.

These ponds are a haven for local wildlife, including ducks, heron and water vole.

Circular Walk

Distance: 5 miles (8.05 km).

Time to walk: About 2.5 hours.

- Starting in the top car park, turn left and follow the path to the canal. Go right, under the road bridge, then over the footbridge to the other side of the canal.
- Follow the path which runs alongside the canal, down past the staircase lock to the bottom basin.
- At bridge No. 68 go over the stile to cross the metal footbridge via two more stiles. Head in the direction of the yellow marker up the left side of the field towards Debdale Grange. Continue through the top field to reach the lane.
- Turn right and walk along the road for 1/4 mile (400m) to a signpost on the left. Cross over the stile and follow the footpath across the field towards the edge of Gumble Wood. Head for the yellow marker to the second stile.
- From here follow a deeply undulating grassy
